Credits for the deserving…

God most of all, for I never would have made a thing without him.

Bruce Arnold, who has been a wonderful resource of computer knowledge. His assistance was invaluable in making the original Composite databases. He also made a complete website utilizing his idea of the Composite concept. Without his support, friendship, encouragement and expertise I never would have even tried to make The Composite Bible Reports, let alone even thinking about putting CBR on the internet. I owe him a great debt for all he has done.

John Sammons, who helped me overcome the final obstacles in making my final Composite Bible stand alone programs. Like Bruce, he was (and still is) a computer expert and a good friend.

Max T. Neel, who was my inspiration. He was the finest preacher of the Gospel I have ever known, even though he never had any training whatsoever.
